Membership Benefits

35% discount on most of our books and monographs, offering high quality and high value! Recently published were the third edition of Contemporary Issues in Higher Education Law, as well as Case Studies in Higher Education – The Law and Administrative Decision Making. Coming in Summer 2017 is the new, sixth edition of ELA's top-selling publication, The Principal's Legal Handbook.

Improved website, with more information and resources expanded regularly. The design and navigation were recently updated, and we continue to make improvements including a (1) membership directory, so you may contact colleagues more easily, and (2) the addition of a more storage and software that will allow you to play our webinars on demand if you miss the live presentation. Later in 2017, we plan to expand further by adding a brief bank for attorney members and increasing the offerings for professors who teach education law.

Special member registration prices for the ELA annual conference and other live seminars. At our 2017 ELA Annual Conference, November 8-11 in San Diego, CA, we have already confirmed Associate Justice Goodwin Liu of the Supreme Court of California as one of our featured speakers, and Mark Walsh of Education Week will present his annual review of education law cases in the U.S. Supreme Court. Future annual conference sites include Cleveland, OH (2018) and Norfolk, VA (2019).

The School Law Reporter provides recent K-12/higher education/Supreme Court case summaries and expanded articles, called Case Commentaries. It is published online (member access only) and in print (by member request).

SLR Index of Cases is an annual publication presenting, in various categories, all the case summaries published in School Law Reporter for the year.

Access to the SLR Express, an online database comprised of many years of ELA case summaries from the School Law Reporter. Search thousands of case summaries from 2008-present to find what you need. From the SLR Express landing page members can begin a keyword search, or narrow your search by choosing Elementary & Secondary or Higher Education from the left menu, then your choice of topic.

Professors, attorneys, administrators, education advocates, teachers, and graduate students can keep informed, improve their legal literacy, network with peers, benefit their students, and advance their careers through membership in the Education Law Association

More Membership Benefits

ELA Notes – Quarterly issues of ELA Notes offer peer-reviewed scholarly articles, member and publication news, and special offers. A timely new feature in this periodical is “First Amendment Perspectives” essays. The periodical is available to members both online and in print.

30-day advance access to the Education Law Consortium's Education Law & Policy Review

Webinar Series – Offered at no additional cost to ELA members, but $99 (per computer) each to non-members, these webinars are chosen from the most highly rated conference presentations as well as created from suggestions provided by conference attendees. Each year six to eight webinars (up from four to five just a few years ago) are presented.

Networking, presenting, and publishing opportunities through ELA and the contacts you make with members. Submit your news so that we may help share it with your colleagues. Find a co-author or co-editor for a publication, or share your expertise in becoming a chapter author for our annual Yearbook of Education Law. Build your resume by being a presenter or co-presenter at our annual conference.

If you want to be available to the press as a research source for writers, be placed on our 'experts list' so that your information may be provided to writers and producers for print and television news stories.

Access to a Teaching School Law folder where professor members can share teaching materials. A Brief Bank for attorneys is coming soon.

Membership in Education Law Association makes a statement about your professional commitment to gaining the latest information on legal issues in education.
