Join with us for key networking and learning opportunities just blocks from the world-famous Rock 'n Roll Hall of Fame this November.

Benefit from the expertise of the presenters leading dozens of concurrent breakout sessions during the main conference, Thursday through Saturday morning. Wednesday afternoon, November 7, is the preconference. Two new post-conference sessions will be held Saturday afternoon.

Now is the time to clear your schedule, register, and reserve your hotel room.

Confirmed featured speakers to date are (left) famed First Amendment advocate Mary Beth Tinker; (center) school safety and security expert Kenneth Trump; and (right) Mark Walsh, presenting the annual Supreme Court Update

- Update your legal literacy
- Make valuable contacts
- Enjoy social events
- Get more involved with ELA

Why you should be part of this annual conference

ELA conference participants represent a diverse constituency of law and education professors, attorneys, school administrators, consultants, graduate students, government employees, and top authors on education law. This spectrum allows you to benefit from face-to-face meetings with people offering a wide range of perspectives on the subjects important to your knowledge base.

"Being surrounded by so many bright scholars, attorneys and administrators who share a passion for education law has played a significant role in my professional development and will continue to serve this role for many years to come," said a recent conference attendee.

Attorneys can earn valuable end-of-year CLE credits in one place, for a very reasonable cost. Non-attorney registrants may receive certificates of attendance.

Reserve your hotel room at the Marriott for the special group rate of $159 per night through October 19, or when the room block is full. Visit <https://bit.ly/2HxaEgg>.

Registration is now open.
Check our website at www.educationlaw.org for regular conference updates.

What you can do now ...

- Clear your schedule for the time you wish to spend in Cleveland.
- Submit your registration and make your hotel reservations at the group rate.
- Go online to see the criteria and deadlines for nominating individuals for several awards presented by Education Law Association. Also, consider sponsorship/advertising opportunities, or donating raffle and auction items.
